

BERKELEY MODEL UNITED NATIONS

THE SIXTY-THIRD SESSION

CONFERENCE CAUSE |

Teach For All

In countries around the world, where children are born determines the kind of education they'll receive and, ultimately, their options in life. Teach For All is a growing network of 35 partner organizations with a shared vision of expanding educational opportunity in their countries. Each partner recruits and develops leaders to teach in their nations' most high-need classrooms and to work throughout their lives to increase opportunity for kids. Teach For All works to increase partners' progress and accelerate collective impact through capturing and spreading knowledge, fostering direct connections and learning across the network, accessing global resources for the benefit of the whole, and contributing to the leadership development of staff, participants and alumni across the network.
